
Silly putty source

Posted by Nikki - 2011/04/12 15:25

Here's where the Newport lab bought "bulk" silly putty. This guy has a huge range of colors and they come in nice big tins that contain more than enough to fill a number of small glass dishes like the ones we use.

Upon finding out that i often have trouble with putty being too soft the owner sent along a couple of things of hardner for me to "revitalize" my putty when it gets too squashy.

Basic primary colors in tins come at 1/5lb for $10. 1 lb bags of basic primary colors run around $28. When i priced these out before and worked out price per weight the little eggs you can buy in the store came out much more expensive!

Crazy Aaron's Puttyworld

=====